Misses Waltz, Rippetoe, Daggy and Allen have gone to Anderson, Ind., to assume their duties as teachers in the public schools, which open next Monday.

Is This Our Willis?

The following special from Anderson, Ind., under date of Sept. 8, is supposed to refer to Willie Burnett, son of W. G. Burnett, who formerly resided in this city:

Anderson, Ind., September 8.—Willis Burnett and Miss Musa Scowden had been lovers. They quarreled, and when he saw her with another gentleman to-day, Burnett swallowed morphine, and was unconscious when found. Doctors think they can save him.

Burgled.

Last Monday night while Dr. W. G. Overstreet was studying natural history at the Wallace menagerie, and viewing with pleasure the artistic twists and turns of the acrobats and the marvelous riding, etc., in the circus, some wretch who feared neither the law nor the Doctor, forced entrance through a window to his residence, and made thorough and careful search for valuables. The thief secured some solid silver ware and sufficient clothing of fine texture and good form to last him through the ensuing fall and winter, and then took his departure. Dr. Overstreet is anxious to interview him, but fears his want will not be supplied, hence he has left his measure for a new suit of clothes.

Later—On Tuesday the thief was arrested at Indianapolis, and Marshal Starr went over there on Wednesday and brought him back. The Indianapolis Journal says: "In the telescope were found three pairs of trousers and two coats. On these articles were several small drips of candle grease, presumably made while the prisoner was going through some house after dark. In the handkerchief were found a candle, several cards with 'Miss Overstreet' printed upon them. Three letters were also found, one addressed to George Kohler, the name given by the man when he was slated. The letter was dated at St. Louis, Kohler's home. Another was a short note addressed to Dr. W. G. Overstreet, city, but there was no clew to the name of the city. The third letter was a letter which had been taken from the envelope and which began 'Dear Doctor'. The letter was written by W. W. Dunnington, of Westfield, Ind., and was of a business character. From it the detective learned that the home of Dr. Overstreet is in Greencastle, Ind. Communication will be opened with Dr. Overstreet, providing there is such a man in Greencastle, of which there is little doubt in the mind of the detective. Kohler is a white man, about thirty-five years of age, dark complexioned and wears a dark mustache.

Gone To His Reward.

On Tuesday morning, Sept. 8, after a long sickness, Andrew Jackson Smedley died at the family residence, in this city, of palsy, in the eighty-second year of his age. Deceased had been a resident of this city for over forty years, he had been a member of the Christian Church for over fifty years, and was highly respected and honored by a large circle of friends and acquaintances because of his personal worth and sterling integrity. Mr. Smedley was born at Carlisle, Ky., March 20, 1815; he was married to Eliza H. Bradshaw, in 1836, and to them were born ten children, six of whom are now living; the wife and mother died in 1878, and in 1879 he was married to Miss Ellen E. White, who survives to mourn his demise. The surviving children of the deceased are Mrs. W. H. Gardner, of Madison township; Mrs. A. J. Hall, of Brazil; Mrs. George A. Ricketts, of Flora, Ill.; Mrs. P. B. Elliott, of this city; Mrs. W. A. Howe, of this city, and James Smedley, of Murphysboro, Ills.

The funeral, which was largely attended, took place from the family residence, on East Seminary street, Wednesday afternoon, Elder A. H. Morris conducting the services.

The city Schools started up, on Monday, with an increased enrollment over last year.

Father McLaughlin attended the funeral of Father Wilson, at Terre Haute, on Tuesday.

Services at St. John's Episcopal Church, Sunday morning, Sept. 13 Holy Communion at 7:30 o'clock; morning prayer and sermon, at 10:30 o'clock.

The coinage and currency questions will be ably and entertainingly discussed, on the afternoon of Thursday, Sept. 17, in this city, by Senator Turpie—don't fail to hear him.

The perfume advertising scheme at the circus, was a corker, and some of those who tackled it were corked, but not until their pocket books were emptied of cash and filled with Yokohama Perfume. People are never too old to gain wisdom by experience.

A reunion of the Harris family was held at the residence of County Recorder Ben S. Harris, on Monday, and the occasion proved one of the much pleasure to all present. There were present Howard Harris and family of Amo, Theodore Harris and wife of Putnamville, A. R. Matthews and family of this city, Miss Nellie Wills of Putnamville, Miss Edwards of Amo, Miss Walden of Putnamville, Mrs. Crane and daughter of Greencastle, and Johnson Herod and family of Jefferson township.

JACKSON AND WALLING

In a Plot to Escape from Jail.

On Sunday Scott Jackson and Alonzo Walling attempted to escape from the jail at Covington, Ky.

They hoped for this end through one of the boldest plots ever conceived by daring prisoners to escape jail and regain their freedom.

The plan as arranged, but which fortunately miscarried, was a murder George Kruse, the night turnkey, wrest from him the keys and then make a break for liberty. Sunday afternoon Turnkey Maurer, in making his usual tour through the corridors of the jail, noticed Scott Jackson enter the cell of a colored desperado named Walker. The turnkey had never before noticed Jackson associating with his colored man, and by a shrewd ruse Maurer secured a position, overheard the conversation carried on in a whisper and then carelessly entered the lobby and entered the colored man's cell.

Jackson, surprised by the presence of Maurer, was somewhat abashed, and suggested a game of cards with the colored man. The turnkey went away and last night at 10 o'clock returning unexpectedly, quietly entered the middle lobby, the quarters containing Jackson, Walling and the colored man Walker.

The prisoners all locked in their cells were apparently deep in sleep when the door of Walker's cell was opened, and, like a flash, Maurer bounded into the narrow compartment, seized Walker's throat with his left hand and with his right put a revolver to his head and dragged him out into the lobby.

Maurer asked him for the revolver that he had. Walker denied any knowledge of the weapon, until the turnkey, reaching in his pocket, pulled forth a murderous looking bulldog revolver.

Walker had on all of his clothes, even to shoes and stockings, ready and waiting for the coming hour of 6 o'clock, when the turnkey was to enter his cell and open the doors. Walker was put in another cell, and then Alonzo Walling, the accomplice of Scott Jackson, was ordered out and questioned about steel saws that he had. Walling boldly declared his innocence, and professed no knowledge as to the reason for the sudden call upon him. Turnkey Maurer, calling another prisoner, commanded him to search the sink in Walling's cell, and he brought forth a half dozen fine steel saws.

The revolver had been passed to the colored man Walker by an alleged friend. The steel saws were passed in to Walling through the keyhole of the front door by a lady, also well known to the turnkey, and who had been shown many favors by this official.

The plot, as arranged, was to await the opening of the doors by the morning turnkey at 6 o'clock. He to be throttled by Walker and shot down, if necessary. The keys were to be taken from him and the outer doors opened, and escape would then have been easy.

Jailer Wieghaus has now issued orders that hereafter nothing can be given to the prisoners, and no one will be allowed to hold any communication with them to any extent.

Death of James H. Black.

The Kansas City Star gives the following particulars of the death of James H. Black, son of Harvey Black, of Bainbridge:

The discovery yesterday morning of the lifeless body of James H. Black of 1117 Miami avenue in an empty box car in the Rock Island Railway yards, in Armourdale, explained his unaccountable absence from home for almost a week. Black was a weighmaster employed by the Western Weighing association and worked at night at the Rock Island railway scale house near the seventh street viaduct. One of the day men had been laying off last week and Black had been working day and night. His meals were carried to him by his children. When they took dinner to him last Thursday noon he could not be found. He was not seen again alive after that.

Yesterday morning L. N. Black, a tramp, was walking through the yards. In passing box car No. 5632 of the Rock Island railway he smelled a bad odor that seemed to emanate from a partly opened door of the car. He looked inside and saw the body. The tramp reported to the police. Coroner Todd ordered the body removed to Daniels Bros. undertaking parlors and deputed Justice Sims to hold an inquest.

A jury was impaneled and the inquest will be held Wednesday. There were no marks on Black's body to indicate the manner of his death and the theory that heart disease or sunstroke caused death is generally accepted. He was lying on a car door with his coat carefully folded under his head. The news was broken to his family by a reporter for The Star and Mrs. Black said she had been expecting to hear some such terrible news as her husband had never remained away from home a day before without letting her know of his whereabouts. Black was 38 years old and leaves a wife and four children. The funeral took place from the home this afternoon. He was a member of A. O. U. W. lodge No. 90 of Argentine and the Select Knights lodge of this city and was insured for $3,000 in the two lodges.

The Circus.

Monday was a red letter day in Greencastle. It was the occasion of the visit of the Great Wallace Show. The name and reputation of this colossal tented organization was sufficient to draw to the College City, the largest crowd that had assembled within its limits for many years. The street parade, which occurred at 11 a. m., was a display of pagentry that drew forth exclamations of surprise and satisfaction from the crowds that thronged the streets, and it was devoid of the commonplace. Bands of music, knights and ladies in dazzling armor, open dens of wild beasts, and other novel and unique features were so combined as to make a parade that could not have been improved. Through the kindness of Mr. Harrison, the genial and gentlemanly press agent, the STAR-PRESS attended the performance. The two rings and the elevated stage were the scenes of uninterrupted acts of the highest class. The acrobatic feats and bareback riding were especially fine, exceeding anything ever witnessed along this line. Half a dozen clowns with wit and humor added to the two hour's pleasure. This magnificent aggregation is an example of the triumph of modern enterprise and ingenuity. With the company, there are over four hundred persons, and over one third of the number are actors. The horses and ponies, which are thoroughbreds everyone of them, are four hundred in number. The menagerie is complete with beasts birds and reptiles from every clime, and are all clean fine specimens. The museum is also up to the high standard. Everything is done with system. A trip through the various tents of the Wallace Shows reminds one of the fabled stories of the Arabian Nights.

The absence of the usual confidence men, gamblers and disreputable hangers on is by no means the least commendable feature of the organization which commends it to the amusement loving public. We predict for the Wallace Show the same unqualified success in the future that has characterized it in the past; should it ever return to this city it will be heartily received.

THE WALLING CASE.

Seward Contradicts Trusty's Story.

A special from Newport, Ky., says: Detective John Seward, who is awaiting trial in the Campbell County Circuit Court for the subornation of perjury in securing William Trusty to tell his fairy tale at the trial of Scott Jackson for the murder of Pearl Bryan, was simply stunned by the confession of Trusty that appeared the day before. Seward was writing a letter to his wife, at Flat Rock, Ky., when a reporter called to see him. Seward said that his wife was ill, and begged to be excused from an interview until he had completed the letter, as he was anxious that his wife receive the missive. He completed the letter and then said:

"You are from The Enquirer, ain't you? I suppose you want to hear what I have to say regarding Trusty's confession? Why, I am disgusted with the fellow at his lack of sense. Does he think that anybody will believe such rot? Not much. His whole story is a fabrication, and I will prove it at the proper time. I could prove it now, but my lawyers have instructed me not to talk, and I have to obey their instructions."

"Trusty said that Georgie Baker, who figured in the case, is your daughter. Is that true?"

"No, it is not. Detective Griffin told you who Georgie Baker is. Her right name is Ann Georgia Burton, but she assumes the name of Georgie Baker when she comes to Cincinnati. She is a notorious character, and killed a man at Somerset, Ky., about 15 years ago. She is now at Rugby, Tenn. I have a daughter named Georgie Baker, the wife of Sam Baker, not at Flat Rock, Ky., as Trusty says, but living in Casey county, Kentucky. Flat Rock is in Pulaski County."

ANOTHER LIE.

"How about your paying Trusty such fabulous sums to tell what he did?"

"That's another lie. I never paid him anything but $10 or $12, once in Cincinnati. The only money I agreed to pay him was so much a day, equal to what he would receive had he remained at work. Another manufactured lie was that he had tried to see Detective Cal Crim for several days before the trial came off and could not. Why, you know that Crim and Trusty were in the witness room every day while the trial was in progress, and if Trusty had anything to tell Crim why didn't he do it then? He knew Crim, and talked to him. Yes, and another lie that Trusty told was that he was at work in a cooper shop at Peoria, Ill., and that I came there, gave him my cue, a railroad ticket for Cincinnati and some money to come here and swear in the Jackson case. We will have records to refute that statement. Why, Trusty was at Champaign, Ill., and Colonel Crawford, Jackson's attorney, sent the money to the Big Four Railroad to pay for a ticket from Champaign to Cincinnati, and the railroad people telegraphed their agent at Champaign to give Trusty the ticket. That's a matter of record, and we have a whole lot more that I would tell you but my lawyers advised me not to talk for publication."

"How about George Dayton? What was he to swear to?"

"Nothing as far as I know. Dayton was a chum of Trusty's, and told me that he would swear to anything if I would pay him for it. I asked him what he knew about the case, and he said he didn't know anything, but if it was made a matter of profit to him he would know everything when placed on the witness stand. I shook Dayton and would have nothing to do with him."

MADE LOVE TO HER.

"Is it true what Trusty says about you and Carrie Evans?"

There is another party who said she was willing to testify to anything. It is true that I made love to the Evans woman, for I thought that the best way to accomplish my purpose in finding out what she knew about the case. I went so far as to make her believe I intended to marry her."

"What became of Georgie Baker, or Georgie Burton, as you say is her true name?"

"Why, she skipped out a few days before Trusty went on the witness stand. I never gave her any money. She went to Rugby, Tenn., and is still there."

"How do you account for Trusty making the confession that he did?"

"Some one induced him to, no doubt telling him that if he would put the burden on me he could release himself. Why, Trusty hates me. He was a witness against me in the United States Court at Louisville and I thought him unimpeachable, for I tried to have him impeached, but failed. That is why I credited his story about driving that cab. He is no relative of mine. His foster father married my wife's sister, and he is a child of his foster father's previous wife. His foster father was married three times. I did not speak to him for years until this case came up."

"On what charge were you tried at Louisville in the United States Court?"

"Counterfeiting. I was acquitted."

"You were arrested for murder once, were you not?"

"Yes, and sent to the penitentiary for life. After I was there a number of years the man that I was charged with murdering turned up alive and healthy."

A CORDIAL GREETING.

Given to the Young Bryan of Putnam.

Last Friday night standing room was not only at a premium, but it was not obtainable at premium and hundreds were turned away, unable to get inside the court room to hear Maynard L. Daggy discuss the political issues of the day. The audience was not only large it was an ideal one, made up of the best of our people, and they heard and appreciated every word said. It was a greeting of which an orator of international reputation might have been proud, and tendered to one so young as Mr. Daggy, it was a compliment never to be forgotten, and pleasing to his friends and admirers as it was rebuking to those narrow-minded, poll-parrotty, partisan blinded fellows who have been misrepresenting and traducing Mr. Daggy ever since the opening of the campaign.

Dr. G. W. Bence, President of the Greencastle Free Silver Club, called the meeting to order, and introduced Mr. Daggy to the audience; in these introductory remarks the Doctor made the statement that he had known the speaker before he was large enough to wear knee breeches, or breeches of any other sort, that he had watched him as he grew to boyhood, and thence upward to manhood; that he had known him, that others of our citizens had known him as a hard student, as an observant citizen, as a truthful and upright young man, and his political ideas were the result of hard study and close observation of men and events.

Mr. Daggy's address was an exhaustive and candid discussion of the free silver coinage question, and a very full and plain argument in favor of the re-enactment of the law in force prior to 1873, which made silver the unit of value, and primary redemptive money of the United States. The speaker entertained the audience for an hour and a half so thoroughly that there was general regret that he did not speak longer.

The gold bug craze is tottering on the brink of the grave—'twill be put under the clods on the first Tuesday in November.

The indications are that there will be a landslide of voters to Bryan in the East, as well as in the West and South. The cause of free silver and gold coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1, is the people's cause, and it is going to win.

The Republicans propose to correct the financial ills the people suffer under by increasing tariff taxation up to the McKinley idea. Such a proposition is similar to pouring salt into a gaping wound to give the victim relief. It is not increased taxation that the people have for; it is more money they want, with which to pay taxes and buy the necessities and conveniences of life.

The statesmen who are now prophesying disaster in case this nation should adopt free coinage, are the same acute prophets who endeavored to defeat the Bland-Allison act by scaring the people by saying that gold would go out and that the nations of the world would dump their silver upon us if this act passed. But the inaccuracy of these prophets was seen after the Bland act became a law. Instead of gold leaving the country, it came out of its hiding place and event into competition with silver thus increasing the gold in actual circulation. Neither was silver "dumped" but the two metals performed faithfully their money functions. As usual experience proved that the John Shermans were wrong.

The Republicans have added to their infamy by employing Eli Perkins, the biggest and most noted liar in North America, to deliver a series of stump speeches for McKinley and the present gold standard.

The gold bugs lack the confidence they boast they have—a frequent experience is to hear them offer to bet on McKinley, but when a silver supporter produces the money and suggests that the gold bug "put up or shut up," the aforesaid gold bug fails to put up, but he immediately shuts up.

The Vincennes Sun says: The much advertised Republican Meeting at Bluebaum's was "pulled off" last night and just "13" appeared. George Mooney was along to furnish applause, Ben Willoughby said his little "piece" but Hon. Jesse Weik the German orator said "nit." It was funny.

CAN the fact be disputed that McKinley is a crank; rather an addle pated one at that, when it is known that he recently said that "free coinage would turn the country over to a policy of wreck and ruin." No one but a crank, a fool or a fanatic could utter such nonsense and believe it true, or endeavor to make the people believe it true.

The bolters from the Democratic convention of 1872, met in convention and nominated Charles O'Connor, for President. These bolters had a clean and just record, as Democrats, and their reason for a bolt was that could not vote for Horace Greeley, a Republican, for President, yet their total vote in the United States was less than 30,000. Its dollars to dough nuts that the bolters' ticket nominated at Indianapolis, which is the result of a desire and a conspiracy to defeat the regular Democratic nominees and confirm the grip of the money power upon the people, will not poll 30,000 votes in the entire United States at the coming November election.

The Banner-Times endeavors to boost up and enliven the failing and dying G. O. P. by asserting that its meetings are largely attended this year, in Putnam county. This sort of a fairy story will do to recite to those who have not been around and kept their eyes open, but it will not go down with those having knowledge of the facts. The Republican meetings held during this campaign, in this county, have generally been poorly attended and there is also a notable absence of enthusiasm and vigor in their canvass. The "present gold standard" don't suit the people who read and think, and this fact will be demonstrated to a wonderful degree when the ballots are cast and the votes counted.

HAVE you heard from Arkansas?

WELL! Well! 75,000 majority for the free coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, in Arkansas.

W. C. P. BRECKINRIDGE is now a leader for "honest" money. He preaches about "morality" with a vigor that discounts them all.

THE word is that Senator Voorhees is much improved in health, and that he will be at home about September 20, and immediately take an active part in the campaign.

THE latest report Dun's financial agency, is that the weather has been affecting business and retarding its growth—this is quite a relief, as heretofore the commercial agencies have asserted that it was the silver craze that was knocking business endways.

THAT the international agreement clause in the Republican platform is a barefaced fraud is evidenced by the action of the so-called gold Democrats at Indianapolis, who said nothing about international agreement. Eckels and the rest of the gold crowd admit that their purpose is to elect McKinley.

ON last Saturday afternoon "orator" A. H. Moore made a Republican-gold-bug speech to the Republicans at the Court House—that is, his admirers called it a speech, but as a matter of fact it was a disconnected and wild jumble of assertions, lacking in facts, lacking in logic, lacking in argument, yea, lacking in everything save noise.

LAST week the Republicans were full of glee because Vermont had gone Republican by an "unprecedented" majority. This week they are in the dumps, because Arkansas has given a majority for Democracy and free silver larger than was ever given in the State before; this too in the face of the fact that the Republicans made the strongest fight possible, in the hope that the "present gold standard" might be indorsed.

Look out for yourself; look out for your family—home folks and home are of more interest to you than anything else on earth. Vote to foster the interests of yourself, your wife and your babies—give your influence and support to Bryan and the cause of free coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and thereby contribute to the happiness and prosperity of yourself and your neighbors.

It is in order, no doubt, now that Breckinridge is so terribly worked up about preserving the honor of the country, to inquire into Breckinridge's honor. How much of it had he in store when he betrayed Miss Pollard? Then again, is his present stock of honor sufficiently large to induce him to pay that $15,000 which the verdict adjudged due to Miss Pollard? Breckinridge is a sweet scented specimen to prate about honor.

THE whole effort and inspiration of the gold bug bolters convention, held at Indianapolis, last week, is to defeat Bryan and continue the grip of the money power upon the U. S. Treasury and the pockets of the taxpayers. That convention was made up of millionaires and the representatives of millionaires, of corporations, and of money changers. They were in politics strictly to subvert and foster their own interests, and they will leave nothing undone in their effort to accomplish their end.

THE Rockville Journal publishes a notice of M. L. Daggy's speech at Russellville, that proclaims the writer a donkey, devoid of understanding, idiotic in the use of language, and fully ripened fruit for the fool killer to take in. The notice appeared in the correspondence from Portland Mills, and read as follows:

"J. S. Alexander, J. T. Clodfelter, Charles Spencer, J. T. Carpenter, Clyde Ball and D. E. Stagers attended the Daggy nonsensical harangue of gold standardism at Russellville, Monday. For lies innumerable, for a young fellow, you should just listen to M. L. Daggy, the free silver exponent."

TRADE LOOKS BRIGHTER.

Commercial Agents Report a Distinct Increase of Confidence.

New York, Sept. 5.—R. G. Dun & Co., in their weekly review of trade, say:

"There is a distinct increase of confidence, due largely to the continuing and heavy imports of gold which have put an end to monetary anxiety, and also to political events which are closely watched. While it does not yet start more mills and factories than are closing for want of work, it crops out in heavy speculative purchases of pig iron, wool and some other materials, by experienced men who believe that a revival of business is not far off, and for the first time in nearly two months a slight upward turn appears in prices of manufactured products. The same spirit appears in speculation."

"Failures have been for the week 234 in the United States, against 186 last year, and 31 in Canada, against 33 last year."

Bradstreet's says: "There is a somewhat better feeling among wholesale merchants as to prospects for autumn trade in seasonable goods. This extends to some industrial lines, notably iron and steel. Chicago sales of iron this week are larger than for all of August, and Pittsburgh sales are larger and prices better on the outlook for harmony among steelmakers. The more encouraging feature as to the movement of prices lies in advance of quotations for wheat on the stronger statistical position and free export movement, higher prices for iron and steel at Pittsburgh and Chicago, with a gain in demand and a further appreciation in quotations for cotton on renewed reports of damage to the crop."

SLAIN BY A COACHMAN.

Shocking Double Tragedy at the Wandells Country Home.

Allendale, N. J., Sept. 9.—A shocking double tragedy aroused the residents of this town near the Saddle river Monday. Isaac Caryl, of New York city, while a guest at the country residence of the Wandells, the family of the late Civil Justice Wandell, was shot down in cold blood by William Doling, who had been a coachman in the service of the family for 19 years. After murdering Caryl the coachman attempted to kill Frank Wandell, and, failing in this, turned the weapon upon himself and sent a bullet through his own heart.

Not the slightest motive can be ascribed for the terrible crime. The coachman and Mr. Caryl had been the best of friends, so far as is known.

A MOB'S WORK.

Two Murderers of a Sheriff Lynched at Glencoe, Minn.

Glencoe, Minn., Sept. 7.—At 20 minutes after one o'clock Sunday morning Charles Cingmars and Dorman Musgrove, murderers of Sheriff Rogers, were hanged to the railroad bridge, less than a quarter of a mile out of town. One of the men was hanged from the north side of the bridge and the other from the south side. The deed was done by 100 citizens of McLeod county, who thus expressed their disapproval of Saturday's verdict that Musgrove be confined to the state prison for life instead of being sent to the gallows. The murder was one of the most coldblooded in the annals of Minnesota.

August Fire Loss.

New York, Sept. 8.—The Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin of Tuesday will say: The fire loss of the United States and Canada for the month of August, as compiled from our daily records, shows a total of $8,905,250. This is over $1,000,000 less than the sum charged against the same month in 1895.

Fishing Season a Failure.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 8.—The department of marine has received information to the effect that the fishing season along the north shore of the St. Lawrence has been almost a total failure. This will entail unprecedented distress among the fishing population.

ASKS FOR MONEY.

People's Party National Committee Appeals for Funds.

Wants All Who Are Willing to Contribute to the Expenses of the Campaign—Subscriptions to Be Taken Up.

Washington, Sept. 9.—An address and appeal for funds has been issued by Marion Butler, chairman of the national people's party committee. It is addressed "To Every American Patriot," and declares that "the people's party, as its name implies, is the champion of the masses who labor and produce wealth," and that it was "the efforts of their party that the revolt of the masses of the democratic party and the nomination of W. J. Bryan on a platform demanding financial independence for the United States, was due."

The Appeal.

Speaking of "a considerable minority in the democratic party, who, though supporting the action of the Chicago convention, do so from policy, and behind their present position is lurking many a doubt and mental reservation," it asserts that the people's party is the only agency through which the people can discount the possible joining of this element to the "bolting plutocrats of the Indianapolis convention."

"To have a government of the people, the people must have a party that is true to them through which to govern. This they cannot have if the national committee of such party draws its campaign funds from bankers and corporations. Therefore the people must contribute the necessary funds for some political party during the campaign in order to have that party to guard their interests after election. If the people's party is placed in power, it will serve the people; and to be left free to do this, your national committee cannot and will not accept contributions from the monopolists who seek to give laws to enable them to prey upon the people."

Appeal for Contributions.

"Therefore, in behalf of the people of the United States, who produce wealth and pay taxes, the people's party national committee appeals to all who are able and willing to do so to contribute the sum of one dollar to our national campaign fund. A prompt response is urgently requested to enable us to prosecute a vigorous campaign in defense of our homes and liberties that are menaced by a combined plutocracy—the Rothschild-Morgan-Johnson-McKinley combination fighting us in front, and the Rothschild-Cleveland-Falmers combination fighting us in the rear."

The appeal closes by asking the people, whose fight, it says, the present one is, to hold up the hands of the national committee. Prompt action is urged. Everyone is asked to give at least one dollar, but if unable to do this, let each give as much as he can. The taking up of subscriptions in the neighborhood is suggested. All amounts, with the names of the donors, should be forwarded to Hon. M. C. Rankin, national treasurer, Terre Haute, Ind.

AFRAID OF TROUBLE.

Spaniards Strengthen Cuban Fortifications, Expecting War with U. S.

New York, Sept. 9.—A special dispatch to the Recorder from Jacksonville, Fla., says: The activity of the Spaniards in strengthening the fortifications at Havana and other coast cities is due, it is said, to fear of war with the United States. Col. Ordonez, the chief engineer of the Spanish army, has arrived at Havana from Madrid, and is superintending the work. Capt. Gen. Weyler is reported to have said that he wants the fortifications rendered as nearly impregnable as possible, as he is convinced that Spain will have trouble with the United States soon after President Cleveland vacates the white house.

Fall of the Walls.

Several others were injured, but none of them seriously. The opera house was a large four-story brick structure. The fire broke out shortly after midnight. It had gained much headway before the alarm was given, and when the firemen arrived the building was a mass of flames. The St. Joseph departments were sent for and arrived soon after. The fire continued to gain on them and was spreading to other buildings when the hook and ladder companies went to the rear of the building, hoping to be able to direct a stream into the mass of flames from a second-story window. Hardly had they arrived there than the wall, with a mighty crash, came down before them, burying 15 men under the red-hot bricks. Other portions of the wall were tottering, and the rescue of the imprisoned firemen was deterred for some time, as it was expected every moment the remainder of the crowd would fall. Finally, some of the crowd rushed into the mass to rescue the shrieking and struggling men.

The Cities in Mourning.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but Guy Prescott who stated that he knew how the fire started, but was not going to give anyone away, was arrested and will be brought before the coroner's jury. The wardrobe of the Katie Putnam company, which gave a performance for the benefit of the firemen Saturday evening, was also burned, as was the wardrobe of the Mexican Troubadours, who are spending their vacation here. Several of the dead firemen have large families. Business is suspended in the two cities and they are draped in mourning in honor of their dead.

Nervous

People often wonder why their nerves are so weak; why they get tired so easily; why they start at every slight but sudden sound; why they do not sleep naturally; why they have frequent headaches, indigestion and

Palpitation of the Heart.

The explanation is simple. It is found in that impure blood which is continually feeding the nerves upon refuse instead of the elements of strength and vigor. In such condition opiate and nerve compounds simply deaden and do not cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla feeds the nerves pure, rich, red blood; gives natural sleep, perfect digestion, self-control, vigorous health, and is the true remedy for all nervous troubles.

Make the Most of Yourself.

It is the duty of every man to make the most of himself. Whatever his capacities may be, he is sure to find some place where he can be useful to himself and to others. But he cannot reach his highest usefulness without pure blood. The blood circulates every organ and when it is pure, rich and healthy it carries health to the entire system, but if it is impure it scatters disease wherever it flows. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one true blood purifier. It cures salt rheum, scrofula, catarrh, dyspepsia and rheumatism because these diseases have their origin in the blood.

The day of Algiers
And the Maltese knight
In bygone years
Were wont to fight.

But the day of Algiers
(And not the knight)
Was dark, it appears,
And the knight was light.

Now they fought by day,
And they fought by night,
In the good old way
Of hitting at sight.

And whenever the day
Was full of might
He would start away
And rout the knight.

But so the knight,
When the stronger man,
Would push the fight,
While the black day ran.

Thus knight chased day
And day chased knight

That day follows night.

THEY GOT THE LION.

"The mountain lion," remarked an old miner some time ago, "is becoming rare in the mountains of the west. When I first went seeking after the gold and silver of Colorado, these animals were rather plentiful. They were met in pairs and were common enough to make it hazardous for a man to walk in the valleys alone and unprotected, particularly after dark. I remember on one occasion having a slight adventure with a lion that almost scared me out of my wits. With a pal, I was working a claim in the mountains near Ouray. Winter came on, and one day, before the very cold weather set in, we went to the town to get supplies, leaving our little cabin on the mountain alone. It came on to snow soon after we got to Ouray, and we did not get a chance to go to the claim for fully a week. As we slowly climbed the hills I noticed the tracks of a mountain lion leading toward our cabin and when we reached the house found that we had forgotten to close a window in the side. We had lost sight of the tracks, and the sight of the open window caused me to forget all about the animal and its presence. I started for the window and was about to put my head into the apartment when there came a terrible growl, and the next instant a great yellow body darted through the opening, right over my back, its claws catching my buckskin and ripping it open to my waist, turning me completely over and into the snow. My pal whipped out his gun, and the infernal lion turned on him, making a fearful leap in his direction. Before he could shoot the beast was upon him and seizing him by the slack of his jacket shook him as if he had been a rat. I was on my feet by this time, and, drawing my revolver, I sneaked up and put a bullet right through his head. He dropped, and my pal drew his breath freely once more. Neither of us was hurt, but the lion's skin in another week was serving as a rug by my cot."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Running the Cataract.

Descending the first cataract of the Nile is a perilous proceeding. The sides of the rapids are walled with solid but not smooth rock, and the water is thrown with frightful impetuosity from either side toward the middle. At every few yards there springs up diagonally a huge wave, and as these side waves meet they form a series of still larger ones, which go in deep and heavy ridges toward the bottom. In "The Nile Without a Dragoon" Mr. Frederic Eden describes his experience in running this cataract in a dahabeah, or houseboat.

"The chattering men, were one and all impressed to silence. A moment more, and our boat was rapidly running along the central ridge of water. The men strained with their utmost force at the oars. A few seconds more, and the vessel began to bound under us in a way I hope never to feel repeated. Each wave, as it struck under the stern, drove her already too depressed head still deeper into the water.

"In the waves came, leaping into the bow, and up they went over the rowers, rendering their oars useless and threatening to drive the boat bodily under. Down we plunged, and when we should have made the turn to the right the largest wave of all hurled us forward so straight that we made full at the wall of rock in front. Before we could touch it another wave struck sideways on the stern of the boat, and, washing up over the deck of the boat, turned us short round. For an instant we were within a foot of the rock; the eddy drifted us round till we lay our head up stream.

CIPHERGRAMS BY TELEPHONE.

Disadvantages of Stuttering While Delivering a Long Distance Message.

Hobson stutters. Hobson is a first class business man, and his vocal infirmity has never interfered until recently with the profits of the well known firm of Hobson & Dobson.

Hobson is a progressive man, ever on the alert to adopt modern methods. He was one of the first local subscribers to the telephone and has kept right up with the march of inventions in all its ramifications. As a wide awake man Hobson was not slow to grasp the possibilities of the long distance telephone. And that is how Hobson and Dobson came to have the first dispute which marred years of profitable partnership.

Dobson went to New York last week. He made his headquarters at a well known Gotham hotel and telegraphed Hobson of his arrival in the eastern town. It seems that an eastern customer had failed to keep a certain agreement the details of which were familiar to Hobson, but not to Dobson. It would take a long telegram to explain the details fully, and Hobson decided to call Dobson up on the long distance telephone. The rate for conversation between Chicago and New York is $8 for five minutes, after the proper connections are made and communication established. The usual negotiations passed between the operators, and Dobson recognized the voice of his partner.

"Hello, Hobson!"

"H-h-hello, D-d-d-dobson! Is that F-y-you?"

"Yes, it's me. Talk fast, Hobson. This costs money."

"I know it does. You know H-h-h-hammers-s-stein & P-p-p-pollosky?"

"Who?"

"H-h-h-h-hammers-s-s-stein & P-p-p-pollosky?"

"Hammerstein & Pollosky? Yes, they bought $4,000 worth of goods from us. What about them?"

"Have j-j-j-just r-r-r-received a l-l-l-letter f-f-f-from H-h-h-hammerstein saying t-t-t-that P-p-p-p-pollosky r-r-r-refuses to—"

"Say, Hobson, you had better ring off now and save money. It makes no difference how long or how short this message is, we are bound to get the worst of it. You don't stutter on a telegraph blank and I cannot understand the cipher system you have been sending. Don't get hot about it, old man, but write it out and send it over the wire. Goodby."

"G-g-g-good-b-b-b-y. Y-y-y-you will b-b-b-e-s-s-sorry for t-t-t-his."

Hobson hung up the receiver with a snap and paid the $8. He is waiting for Dobson to return.—Chicago Times-Herald.

INTERRUPTED DUFF'S PRAYER.

The Reverend Negro's Invocation Was Forgotten In the Midst of Cannonading.

Uncle Duff, hearing the noise, began to pray; Aunt Saluda joined him fervently; Sam listened stupidly and in suffocating terror.

Fifteen cannon thundered together over beyond the bridge, and a flight of shells in the air made a prolonged whirling noise, followed presently by a rapid spluttering of musketry in the woods at the lower edge of the plantation. The regiment went across the field at double quick step, knocking over the fences as they came in the way.

"Oh, good Lor, if ye kin spa'de ole man er leetle bit longer!"—began Uncle Duff, but his prayer was interrupted by an explosion on both sides of the river, rival batteries thundering at one another, and opposing lines of infantry exchanging long rolling volleys.

Mrs. Farrow saw the cavalry scurry away from their lurking place under the river bank and disappear in the woods, while four or five heavy field guns, drawn by panting and overworked horses, trundled rapidly along the red clay road, the drivers whipping and swearing.

After a few rounds there came a short lull in the bombardment, during which a singular serenity pervaded the air and sky.

But Uncle Duff sprang to his feet as another awful cannonade began and a shell burst on the railroad track in front of the door. He forgot his prayer.

"Hell an' fury!" he cried, "dat's dangerous! G' me my hat, fo' Lor sake! I've gwine outen yer!" And he rushed through the back doorway, and across the garden to the woods, followed by Sam and Aunt Saluda.—Lippincott's.

Hunting the Polar Bear.

At 7 we continued our journey in calm, hazy weather. We had barely traveled two hours before, on turning a headland, we suddenly espied the bear some 300 yards in front of us. At racing pace the dogs sped away across the hard snow, but the bear did not take long to consider his position and then to deal with it. He decided not to deal with the dilemma at all and simply bolted. But we were down upon him, when Kolotengva quickly cut the single trace of the eight dogs, the sledge stopped dead, and the deliberated dogs flew with redoubled energy at the hairy giant, who now turned to defend himself at last. During the short space of time occupied by us in coming up with the combatants I had a good opportunity of watching the splendid tactics of the dogs. As soon as they came up with the bear they spread out in a semicircle right in front of their foe and attacked him by making dashes at his long, thick coat with their sharp, glistening teeth, and they displayed during these proceedings such outness and skill that it was evident they quite understood that it was a question of "breakfast or no breakfast" for them.

Whenever the bear angrily raised one of his huge paws to crush one of his tormentors the latter slid away in the most agile manner, while his companions gave the wretched brute enough to attend to in another direction. However, a few shots from our Winchester soon ended the combat, and an hour later we had the large, magnificent bearskin safely packed on the sledge, together with a good quantity of meat, while the dogs were treated to a substantial meal, which they indeed wanted badly, and we again continued our journey.—Fortnightly Review.

Generous Johnny.

"Which would you rather, Johnny," asked the fond mother, "have the measles and stay at home or be well and go to school?"

"Rather have the measles and stay at home, but then I'd like to go to school too," said Johnny.

"But why, darling?" urged his mother.

"So I could give all the other fellows the measles," answered the generous boy.

SHIAHS AND SUNNIS.

Mohammedans divide themselves into two principal sects.—Shiah and Sunni—the Persians representing the bulk of the former, the Turks of the latter. The chief points on which they differ are the condition of the soul after death and the succession of caliphs. "The Sunni belief is that there is one immortal God, whose works are without beginning or end, and that he will be visible to the souls of the blessed, while the Shiah deny the immortality of the soul and maintain that the coexistent principles of Zoroaster will forever contend for the mastery." With regard to the prophet's successors, the Sunnis claim that the lawful successor of Mohammed was Abu Bekr, and after him Omar, Osman and Ali, nephew and son-in-law of Mohammed. The Shiah, however, reject the first three and hold that Ali was the only legitimate successor.

Shiah pray but three times a day, and enjoin pilgrimages to Nejeef, Kerbela, Kazimain, Meshed (Persia), Samara and Kum, as well as to Mecca and Medina. Sunnis make pilgrimages only to the two latter cities, and pray five times a day. From this it can be readily understood that the circumstances of the Turks being in possession of the shrines of Nejeef (Mashed Ali), Kazimain and Kerbela is most displeasing to devout Shiah.—Blackwood's Magazine.

How to Punish a Jilt.

"Do you remember," said Mr. Cawker to his wife, "that when the lovely Miss Beeson jilted young Mr. Spudds five years ago to marry Mr. Dillingham the rejected one swore a mighty vow to be revenged on his successful rival?"

"Yes," replied Mrs. Cawker, "I remember it well; but such threats never amount to anything."

"In this case they did. Spudds has filled fat the ancient grudge he bears Dillingham."

"He hasn't killed him, has he?"

"Oh, no. His torture is more lingering than that, my dear."

"What has he done?"

"Dillingham told me of it himself, and I must say that the scheme does Spudds credit in his ingenious cruelty."

"But tell me what it is."

"Well, after the wedding Spudds went and allied himself with a fashionable drapery house in the city, and ever since then he has occupied his time in preparing the most perfectly irresistible descriptions of bargains of all sorts and sending special invitations to Mrs. Dillingham to attend the sales. The poor fellow tells me that he has two mortgages on his house now and expects to go into irretrievable bankruptcy immediately after the next bargains at Spudds' emporium."—London Tit-Bits.

Wandering Needles.

In one of the medical journals a surgeon recorded some years ago a strange instance of the wanderings of a needle in a lady. The patient called upon him, stating that the greater portion of an ordinary sewing needle had broken in the first joint of her left thumb. The surgeon could plainly feel the needle point, but after ineffectual attempts at the extraction of the foreign body he recommended that nothing further should be done lest the attempts to remove it might result in greater injury to the joint.

About a year afterward, however, the patient called upon him to inform him that a day or two previously she had felt a pricking sensation of the right forefinger, and having broken the skin she without difficulty extracted the portion of the lost needle from the point of the finger. If all these facts be correct, as reported, the needle traveled from the left thumb along the arm, across the chest to the right arm, and down the latter to the finger where it was extracted.—Chambers' Journal.

For Dosing Oneself.

A physician recommends rochelle salts for amateur doctoring. He says that it is an excellent thing to, several times a day, take as much of the salts as may be put on a 3 cent piece in a little water; that they will sweeten the stomach and act as a very desirable spring medicine. He also speaks highly of soda, having no patience with those timid people who have an idea that it is a dangerous dose, doing some vague harm to the coating of the intestines.

"Why, everything we eat almost has soda in it," he cries in disdain. "It is an admirable thing to take half rochelle salts and half bicarbonate of soda, as directed, several times a day. I know of few gentler and still more beneficial general medicines."—Philadelphia Press.

New Use For Blotters.

The clerk at the drug store noticed that the lady he was waiting upon had had her attention attracted by some blotters bearing an advertisement. So he wrapped a couple of them around the lady's purchase. The proprietor of the establishment was not a little surprised about a week later to receive a letter from the lady saying that she had worn those blotters on her chest constantly, and she was pleased to say that a soreness in the lungs from which she had suffered for years had entirely disappeared.—Boston Transcript.

A Friendly Hint.

The small cigar cutters generally seen in tobacco stores seem to exercise a strange fascination over some people. It seems that few people can stand near one of these machines without playing with it, and sometimes there is a finger put. A dealer has a clever scheme by which to obviate this danger. A small sign upon the cutter reads, "For cigars, not fingers."—Exchange.

SAPOLIO

IS GREATER THAN ROYALTY ITSELF.

South Washington, Ills. is visiting home folks. Uncle John Miller is dangerously sick at this writing. Robert Evans made a business trip to Sterleyville one day last week. The peach crop is about harvested it has been a good one. Mrs. Carrie Neese is in very poor health. Grandma Crouse has been suffering with a sprained foot. Charles Delino is the proud papa of a new baby boy at his house. William Evans has a cherry tree that is in bloom.

Merit in medicine means the power to cure. The great cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla prove its unequalled merit.

In the October Harper's an engraved portrait of "The Author of 'The Martian,'" will stand as frontispiece, and a generous installment of Mr. Du Maurier's new novel, with five characteristic drawings by the author, will be given. Other features of the number will be: An illustrated paper entitled "The Blue Quail of the Cactus," by Frederic Remington; "The Hypnotist," a story by Octave Thanet, with four illustrations by A. Frost; "Electricity," with twenty-four illustrations; "Some American Cricketers," by Samuel H. Scudder, with nine illustrations by L. J. Bridgman, etc.

During September Harper's Weekly will follow with pen and pencil the striking incidents of Li Hung Chang's visit to the United States. Thomas R. Dawley, Jun., will give a comprehensive review of his experience as war correspondent in Cuba; an article on Washington's Farewell Address, with realistic reproductions of the original manuscript, will be contributed by Hon. Worthington C. Ford; and three will be a paper by General Greeley on Nansen's voyage to the North Pole. The progress of the political campaign will be shown in telling cartoons and characteristic illustrations.

One of the literary features of Harper's Bazar for September—a story by Octave Thanet—will appear in the issue of the 5th of the month. "Why Abdyllonia Surrendered" is its title, and the matter of manner of Abdyllonia's surrender are dramatized by the characters in the little Arkansas country town in which the scene is laid.

Summer Resorts on the Monon.

The Summer Resorts on the Monon Route more than usually popular this year. West Baden and French Lick Springs, are overflowing with visitors, and the hotels have all they can do. Paoli, the county seat, has opened a rival sanitarium, which is well patronized. The water of the various springs differs materially in their constituents, and are successfully prescribed for a great variety of maladies. The woods of the neighborhood abound in game and all the streams teem with fish, some of them having been stocked by the government fish commission. All indications point to West Baden (and the neighboring springs) as the great sanitarium and popular summer resort of the west. Cedar Lake, forty miles from Chicago, is a favorite picnic and outing spot, where the Monon has a fine wooded park or nearly 400 acres. The fishing is first rate.

The Garden South.

The South is destined to be, and is rapidly becoming, the garden of the United States. Here life is easier, the work is less, the fruits of the soil are more abundant, and the summer is so trying as many northern people have supposed. "I used to live only half the year," said the farmer recently settled in south, "and I used to work all the time then. Now I work half time and live all the year through." Home seekers' excursion tickets will be sold over the Monon Route to nearly all points in the south at the rate of one first class fare (one way); tickets good returning on any Tuesday or Friday within 30 days from date of sale. Liberal stop-overs are allowed. These excursions (and tickets are sold) Aug. 17, 18 and 31; Sept. 1, 14, 15, Oct. 5, 6, 19, and 20. Call on J. Michael, agent of the Monon Route for further information.

Low Rate Excursions South.

On the first and third Tuesday of each month till October, about half-rate for a round trip will be made to points in the South by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad. Thieves broke into Nathan Chapman's house, Monday night, and stole a lot of clothing, some silverware, etc.; the family were absent, and the theft was not discovered until Tuesday evening. No clue as to the guilty parties but it is believed that Kohler, who robbed Overstreet's residence, is the guilty person.
Now will you ride a wheel? It is said that the use of the wheel endows its rider with the high arches instead so much desired by every woman. It is also stated that much pedaling makes the fair cyclist's foot larger and flattens it out. The two theories do not agree. 'Tis confusion worse confounded. Who can find the path out of this labyrinth of contradictions?

On Thursday afternoon Greencastle's baseball players and the Kansas City league team played a match game on McKean Field. The teams were not well matched, however, say in number, but the local team played good ball, considering the odds against them. Greencastle's team consisted of Brown, S. Bivelle, C. Lawrence, 1st; Callahan, 2d; Mason, 3d; Bennett, 1. f.; Eiteljorg, c. f.; Conklin, r. f.; Pulse, p. The star events of the game were four home runs—two by Eiteljorg, one by Callahan, and one by Lawrence. All the boys played well, and with practice together would have made a far better showing. The score was 20 to 12 in favor of Kansas City.
